

ASSIGNMENT RE/DESIGN STUDIO

August 20th, 2019

MCA 187 (Lambert Lounge)

1:00 PM – 4:00 PM

Open to all faculty, this drop-in studio working session is a chance to meet with faculty and staff colleagues to discuss and refine existing course assignments and projects, or brainstorm new ones in a collaborative and practical workshop environment.

Bring assignment descriptions or ideas to discuss with colleagues from program areas across the university. In addition to faculty members, staff from the Faculty & Curriculum Development Centre, Writing & Learning Centre, Academic Computing and the Library will also be available to share their expertise on such topics as:

- Using a wholistic approach to integrate Indigenous knowledges and perspectives
- Embedding principles of Universal Design for Learning
- Using writing activities to generate ideas and strengthen concepts
- Scaffolding assignments to support English Language Learners
- Integrating technologies to enhance learning
- Creating effective assignments and assessments for larger classes
- Developing students' information literacy and library research skills

Come alone or with a team. No appointment or registration necessary.
